FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – July 15, 2009

The All Swimmers Unite foundation is partnering with Colorado Time Systems at the American Swimming Coaches Associations (ASCA) World Clinic in Fort Lauderdale, FL on September 8-13, 2009. “This is an excellent opportunity for All Swimmers Unite to participate in a world class swimming event in order to raise awareness and funds to help secure the future of men’s and women’s collegiate swim programs,” said Nick Brunelli, co-founder of All Swimmers Unite.

The All Swimmers Unite foundation is creating an endowment that will be made available to collegiate swim programs that faces elimination due to budget cuts within their college athletic department. “Collegiate swim programs provide a college education for many students who may not otherwise receive higher education,” stated Nick Brunelli.

“We are very enthusiastic about our partnership with All Swimmers Unite at this year’s World Clinic,” said Anita Sayed, President and CEO of Colorado Time Systems. “Collegiate swimming is important to us at CTS, however we recognize that education is of paramount importance to these athletes. As our partnership with the foundation grows, they will help stabilize the uncertainty that now exists within collegiate swimming, and we are happy to help with that mission.”

Based in Loveland Colorado, Colorado Time Systems has established a reputation for precision and innovation in swim timing equipment. Since 1972, premier aquatic facilities have chosen Colorado Time Systems for platinum quality timing, scoring, and display systems.
